Jeff joined GBQ in 2008 after graduating from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

Jeff's tax experience includes the preparation of federal, state and local filings for businesses and individuals alike. In particular, Jeff has a breadth of involvement with managing the tax planning and compliance for partnership investment funds and closely-held businesses.

In addition, Jeff has executed substantial work helping GBQ's clients capture federal and state research and development tax credit as well as assisting companies with the tax treatment of tangible property. As a result of recent changes to the rules surrounding the R&D tax credit as well as the new tangible property regulations, Jeff has been able to identify significant tax savings opportunities for many new and existing clients of GBQ.

Jeff serves on the board of Columbus Early Learning Centers. As a board member, Jeff assists the nonprofit's Finance Committee, as well as volunteers for various fundraising events that support the organization.
